

had been heard from the cavalry and artillery of the column taken into Mexico south of Huehuetla by Col. G. A. B. de la Cruz. The cavalry was among the regiments that left Columbus today for the "front."

It was generally credited in Columbus today that the passengers said, that Col. H. J. Sloane, Thirteenth Cavalry, who was in command of the column, had eight Villa raiders in the column, offered a cash reward of $50,000 for the capture of Villa, "dead or alive," by Mexicans or Americans. Col. Sloane is a nephew of Mrs. Russell Sage. Mrs. Sloane returned today to Columbus, after spending a week in El Paso following the fall of the "front."

Passengers said as many troops are now in Columbus as before the departure of the Pershing expedition, and that these are expected to return to the country rapidly. Cavalry, artillery and aviation corps men are at work at Columbus drilling and preparing for active duty.

Work is in progress on the erection of a big temporary hospital and other frame buildings to serve the base as a store house, headquarters, machine shops, etc.

Seven aeroplanes are said to be operating now with Pershing's forces. The aviators are observing the country in the foothills around the mountain.

The aviators have accurate maps and information as to the various routes Villa must take to reach his haunts in the mountains of Chihuahua and Sonora. It is presumed that they are aided by wireless apparatus by which they may communicate their information at once to the forces in the field.

The aeroplanes are not provided with any weapons of offence. They have revolvers and rifles for use in case they should be forced to descend and are attacked.

The body of Lieut. E. M. Zell, Eleventh Cavalry, who ended his life at Columbus yesterday, was shipped from there today, through El Paso, to Baltimore, his home.

Villa's Horse Shot.

The passengers learned that the American army had overtaken some of Villa's ill-fed, starving abandoned horses and had nearly shot them to the advance. The Americans discovered in the first day of the march a number of dead Villistas, killed by American cavalry, and the retreat from Columbus, according to returning officers.

Gen. Gaviro announced in Juarez tonight when he gave the information regarding the whereabouts of Villa and the American troops that this was the last word to the American press. He asserted that he has been made ridiculous in the eyes of his people and called a traitor by many as a result of having put into his mouth by certain American papers and that to avoid such things in the future he would refuse to receive American correspondents.

It is believed that he merely gave this as an excuse and that he is putting on a censorship at the request of American military officials.

Gaviro, it was hinted, fears assassination at the hands of his own troops if he is further quoted as showing too kindly a feeling toward the American people, and particularly the American troops on the Mexican soil.

Many wild stories were in circulation tonight regarding the fate of American troops in Mexico if they penetrate much further. One report heard in army circles was that several thousand Carrancas troops, ex-Villistas, are waiting in a valley west of Casas Grandes and north of San Buena Ventura ready to attack the American forces.

Another report said that the Carrancas garrison at Cananea, some 100 miles from the American border, is ready to revolt against Carranza and burn the town and smelters and destroy the mines. The reports that the Americans have crossed the line into Mexico, when an American, who arrived here today, left Cananea on Wednesday, the report was not heard of an invasion, but they were saying what they would do if occurred.

Villa in Old Haunts.

Villa is reported tonight to be moving without halt to the Bachajon district, from which he has been successfully for a long period of years as a bandit.

While it was not officially stated at Juarez, it was intimated that negotiations were going on between the Constitutionalists and American authorities relative to the distance into the interior which the American troops are to penetrate on their expedition.

George C. Carothers, special agent for the State Department, said today that there was no reason to expect any Washington making negotiations and that so far as he knew he was the only person along the frontier in that capacity.

"If we see reason for any alarm on the Mormon colonies," said Gen. Gaviro, "Villa is now considerably southeast of the settlement and the karriboes in that vicinity are well armed and prepared to withstand any invasion by bandits, Villistas or otherwise."

Gen. Celler, chief of the Mexican Consulate in El Paso today that a Villista spy had been placed under arrest at Dos Cabezas. He is alleged to have been at Columbus on the morning of the massacre. The man's name is stated as being R. Panablos, and upon being given the "third degree" he is said to have stated that Villa had retreated from Palomas to Carrizosa, and there assassinated seven carbos, because they would not give him horses.

Lopez Not Dead.

From Corralitos the spy said Villa had gone through Chocolate Pass on his way to Galeana. He also said that Col. Pablo Lopez, said to have been killed on the battlefield at Columbus, was alive with Villa, but had been shot through both legs.

Villa's wounded from Columbus were being buried in ten wagons. The bodies were forced to march southeast into the Buena Ventura district, cattlemen coming from western Chihuahua reported today.

Many of Villa's men who were wounded at Columbus and in the running fight across the desert with the Thirteenth Cavalry had died from their injuries in the long march from the battlefield at Carrizosa, and more were dying as the column of 300 or 400 Villistas marched into the Galeana district.

The Villistas have burned a railroad bridge, 200 feet in length, near Corralitos, in the path of the American advance. This information was received here today from sources believed reliable. According to the information, the bridge was built on low trestles and spanned a wide gulch crossed by the Mexico Northwestern Railroad. The place is in the immediate neighborhood of the ranch where Villa is declared by American refugees to have shot Mexican ranchers last Sunday and seized their horses.

An interesting development in the situation today was the sending of a dispatch to the consulates for Mexico along the border by Lead Walker, editor of El Progreso, at Laredo, Tex., that German spies are being sent to the United States. Before he had a chance to spend much of the money it was tied up by various injunction proceedings against a stable government was finally established in Yucatan the State was made plaintiff.

Col. Argumedo's New York Deposit Box Be Undisturbed.

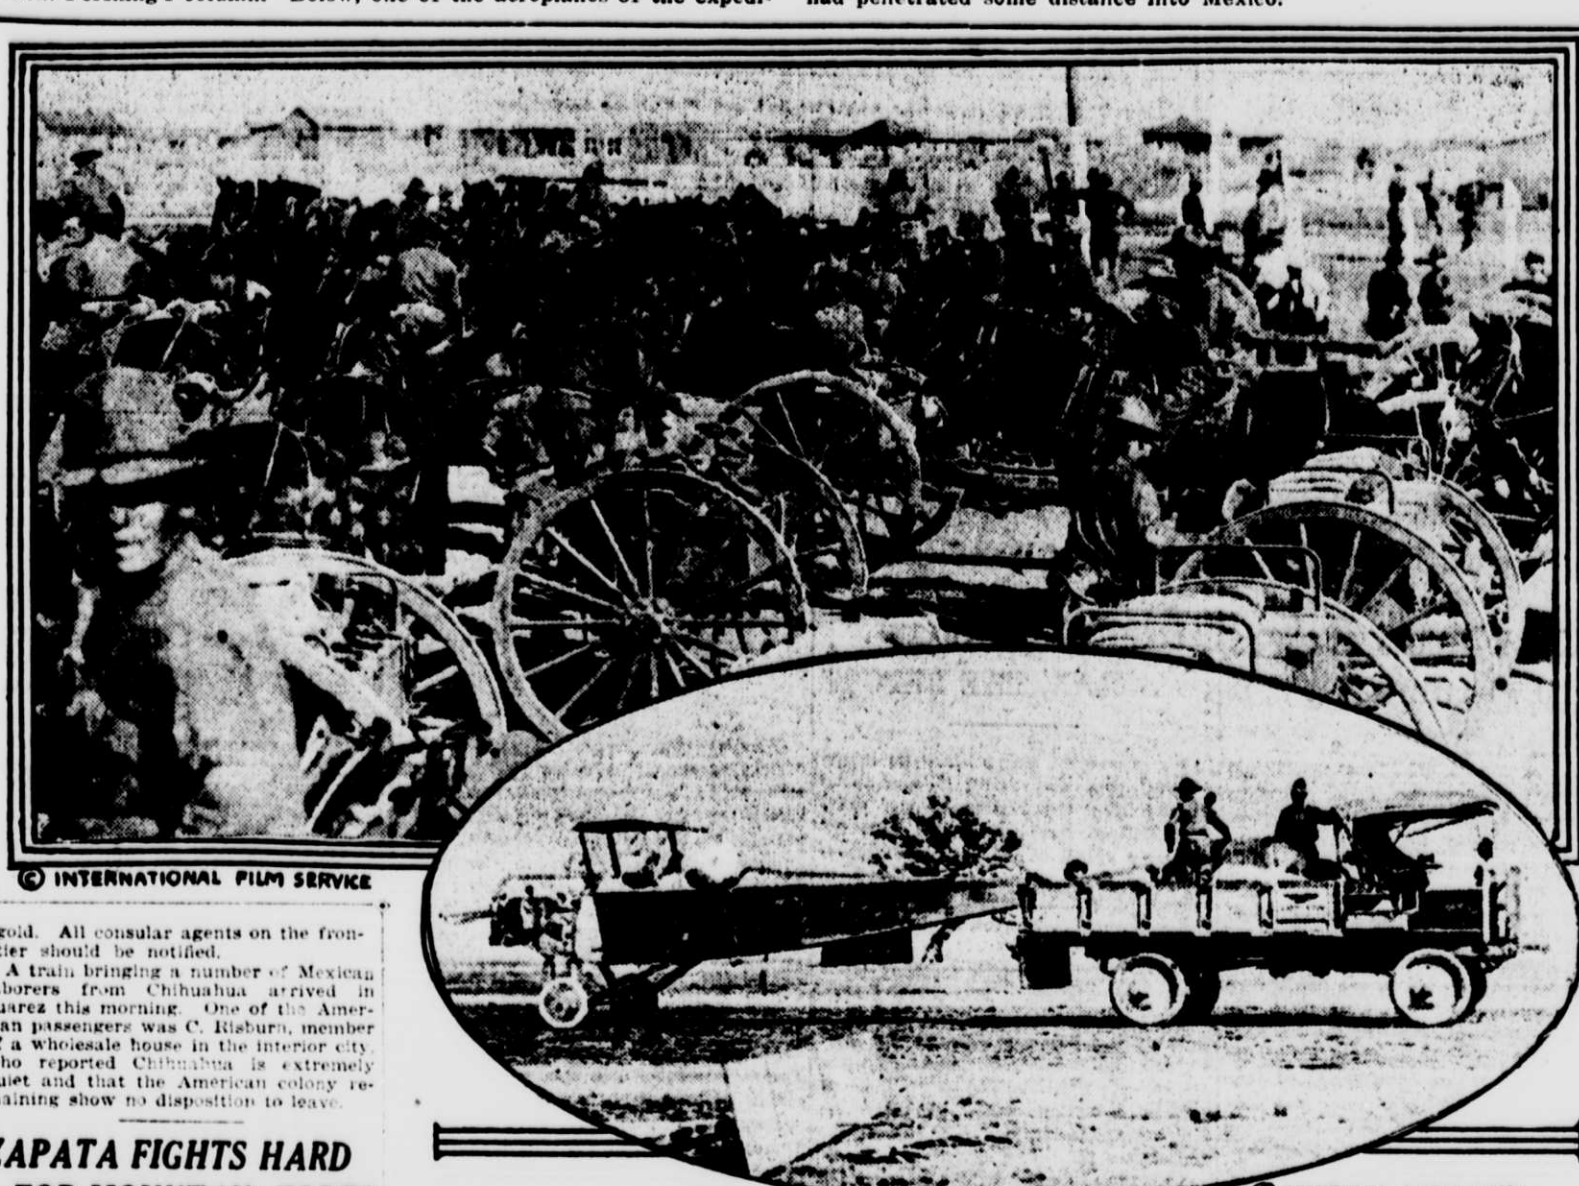

Col. Abel Ortiz Argumedo, who appointed himself Governor of the State of Yucatan, Mexico, about a year ago and served for a few days until the soldiers of Gen. Carranza got too near, must pay $47,250 to Yucatan as the result of the verdict of a jury of the Supreme Court Justice Bijur yesterday.

When Col. Argumedo left Yucatan he took nearly $500,000, under pretence of using the money to buy supplies in the United States. Before he had a chance to spend much of the money it was tied up by various injunction proceedings against a stable government was finally established in Yucatan the State was made plaintiff.

Col. Argumedo contended before the jury that he was not a rebel and that the Carranzistas are usurpers. He said he was retaining possession of the money in order to turn it over to the government as established here.

As a result of the verdict an injunction was granted yesterday restraining the Woolworth Building Safe deposit Company from permitting any of its agents from removing any of the contents of his safe deposit box there.

ABOVE, the Sixth Regiment of United States Field Artillery parked at Columbus, N. M., before moving across the border as part of Gen. Pershing's column. Below, one of the aeroplanes of the expedition.

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE

ZAPATA FIGHTS HARD FOR MOUNTAIN FORTS

Gen. Gonzales Going to Ajusco to Take Personal Charge of Campaign.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun.

MEXICO CITY, March 17.—Gen. Gonzales will leave tomorrow for Ajusco to inspect the troops of his forces which are facing the Zapatistas in the mountainous region of the southern campaign.

Fighting has been constant throughout the last few days, the Zapatistas occupying every inch of the mountain wildernesses as the Constitutionalists slowly extend their lines.

Several thousand Indians from Xico, Hidalgo, and other surrounding towns have fled to the mountains of this city, seeking refuge from the Zapatistas. The Constitutionalists are now in possession of the mountainous region, and the Zapatistas are being driven back to the mountains.

Another report said that the Carrancas garrison at Cananea, some 100 miles from the American border, is ready to revolt against Carranza and burn the town and smelters and destroy the mines. The reports that the Americans have crossed the line into Mexico, when an American, who arrived here today, left Cananea on Wednesday, the report was not heard of an invasion, but they were saying what they would do if occurred.

TO AID TRAINING CAMPS.

War Department Tells Gen. Wood It Will Help to Limit.

Whatever of truth there may have been in the report that the civilian army training camps would be abandoned on account of the Zapatista developments in Mexico, the following telegram from the War Department, dated March 17, will satisfactorily refute. The first was sent by Major-General Leonard Wood, commanding the Eastern Department, to the Adjutant-General of the army, War Department, Washington, D. C.

Request denied as far as this department is concerned of the alleged War Department statement that no military instruction camp would be held in the United States. The report is entirely untrue. The War Department is not prepared to accept any responsibility for the report. The War Department is not prepared to accept any responsibility for the report.

1898 VETS WANT TO GO.

President Assured of Old Campaigners' Readiness.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Veterans of the Spanish American War tendered their services to President Wilson today through Commander in Chief E. A. Dyer of the United Spanish War Veterans. Mr. Dyer informed the President that the veterans stand ready to participate in the Mexican campaign should their services be needed.

"The United Spanish War Veterans is composed of men who mostly saw service in the tropics," Commander Dyer said. "They are healthy, brave and patriotic, and they are ready to be sent to fight for service in Mexico, a semi-tropical land. The ninth section of the constitution of our order reads: 'To develop the spirit of the citizenry, to be able and to the army and navy and the Government during any future war.'"

"Our membership comprises veterans of the army, navy and marine corps, and officers, physically and mentally fit, and again willing to offer their lives for their country."

Systematic inquiry as to the number of troops who would be available for actual field service in the Spanish War Veterans is progressing rapidly.

YUCATAN'S FUNDS TIED UP.

Col. Argumedo's New York Deposit Box Be Undisturbed.

Col. Abel Ortiz Argumedo, who appointed himself Governor of the State of Yucatan, Mexico, about a year ago and served for a few days until the soldiers of Gen. Carranza got too near, must pay $47,250 to Yucatan as the result of the verdict of a jury of the Supreme Court Justice Bijur yesterday.

When Col. Argumedo left Yucatan he took nearly $500,000, under pretence of using the money to buy supplies in the United States. Before he had a chance to spend much of the money it was tied up by various injunction proceedings against a stable government was finally established in Yucatan the State was made plaintiff.

Col. Argumedo contended before the jury that he was not a rebel and that the Carranzistas are usurpers. He said he was retaining possession of the money in order to turn it over to the government as established here.

As a result of the verdict an injunction was granted yesterday restraining the Woolworth Building Safe deposit Company from permitting any of its agents from removing any of the contents of his safe deposit box there.

FUNSTON PLANNING A QUICK CAMPAIGN

Wireless and Motor Trucks Big Factors, With Trusty Burro Ready to Aid.

BASE HOSPITALS READY

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 17.—Plans for conducting the campaign in Mexico were announced today. The ten-ton motor truck and distinctive burro will be utilized as the principal transport in bringing up supplies. The base of operations is to be at Fort San Antonio, where Major-General Funston will issue commands to field generals and receive their reports by wireless and telegraph.

The main base of supplies will be at Columbus, N. M. Unbroken lines of communication are to be maintained from Columbus to the troops in the field and between Fort San Antonio and Columbus. Border patrols and scouts will be on duty night and day to see that Gen. Funston can get in touch with his army at a moment's notice.

The hospital base, headquarters depot, ordinance and remount stations also are to be at Columbus. There will be a central base of supplies and horses to supply troops in the field. Enormous quantities of cartridges, shells, shrapnel and ammunition for artillery will be stored there. Subsidiary hospitals will be established at San Antonio and Austin. As the troops advance field hospitals and supply bases are to be moved forward operations.

Portable and telegraph lines will supplement the wireless in communicating between field operations and base. American soldiers are able to lay a mile of telephone and telegraph line in two days. Whenever necessary barbed wire fences can be utilized for wires and in cases of emergency insulated wires will be laid up the ground. Signal Corps men can set up wireless stations in thirty minutes and flash a call for help or ask for orders from the commanding officer.

A constant stream of supply trains will pass to and from field operations and bases of supply. Munitions, forage, food, water, fuel, cross men and mules, and other necessities will be transported to and from the front in automobiles, motor trucks and wagons, mule and horse drawn vehicles, and on motor cycles and bicycles.

Wherever it is impossible to find good roads burros and mule trains will replace vehicles. A mule can carry 200 pounds of supplies and mules compose a large part of the transport. There usually are twenty-seven wagons in a train, eight mules to a wagon. An automobile company will transport of twenty-seven supply trucks and one repair truck.

American soldiers receiving wounds in battle will be brought from field hospitals to the base hospital in Columbus. When the wounded are sufficiently recovered to travel they will be sent to subsidiary hospitals at San Antonio or Austin, to remain until they recover and return to duty.

Success of the expedition will depend largely upon the engineer and medical corps. The task of the engineers is to construct and repair bridges, and to construct roads for passage of men and supplies through the mountains and across the plains. They also will be confronted with the job of building and repairing bridges to span the rivers and streams over which Gen. Pershing's troops must pass.

Villa will burn bridges, dynamite a cable, lay waste wherever possible. He knows every foot of the ground in northern Mexico and if he decides to conduct guerrilla warfare it may require months to surround and trap him. Army officers are confident of success, but none will predict how long it may take to capture or kill Villa and his followers.

Gen. Funston is taking no chances and will analyze all mule, water and native food which the soldiers will consume. Thousands of cavalry and infantry are to be stationed near the border as reinforcements and to be ready to move on a moment's notice as reinforcements.

Medical corps men and officers are in every arm of the service are being assembled at the various army posts and sent to the front, while recruiting officers in all parts of the United States are working to enlist the 20,000 men authorized by Congress to bring the mobile army to a full strength of 120,000 men.

HIGH RAIL LINER IN PORT.

Brings a Scotch Cargo to Cheer Thrifty Broadway Folk.

The British steamship Ronanoke of the High Rail Line, yesterday from Leith and Dundee, arrived at New York, bringing a big cargo of Scotch whisky, consigned to various hotels and liquor dealers of this city, was held up in Pentland Pith by a British torpedo boat and a young Lieutenant boarded her, ordering her to Kirkwall. But she did not get there.

The reason was that the Ronanoke skipper convinced the young Lieutenant that he had been properly cleared by the authorities of Dundee, that his cargo was not contraband and that the Lieutenant might take a few bottles to spice the main brace, which needed repairs.

THINKS WIFE WAS SLAIN.

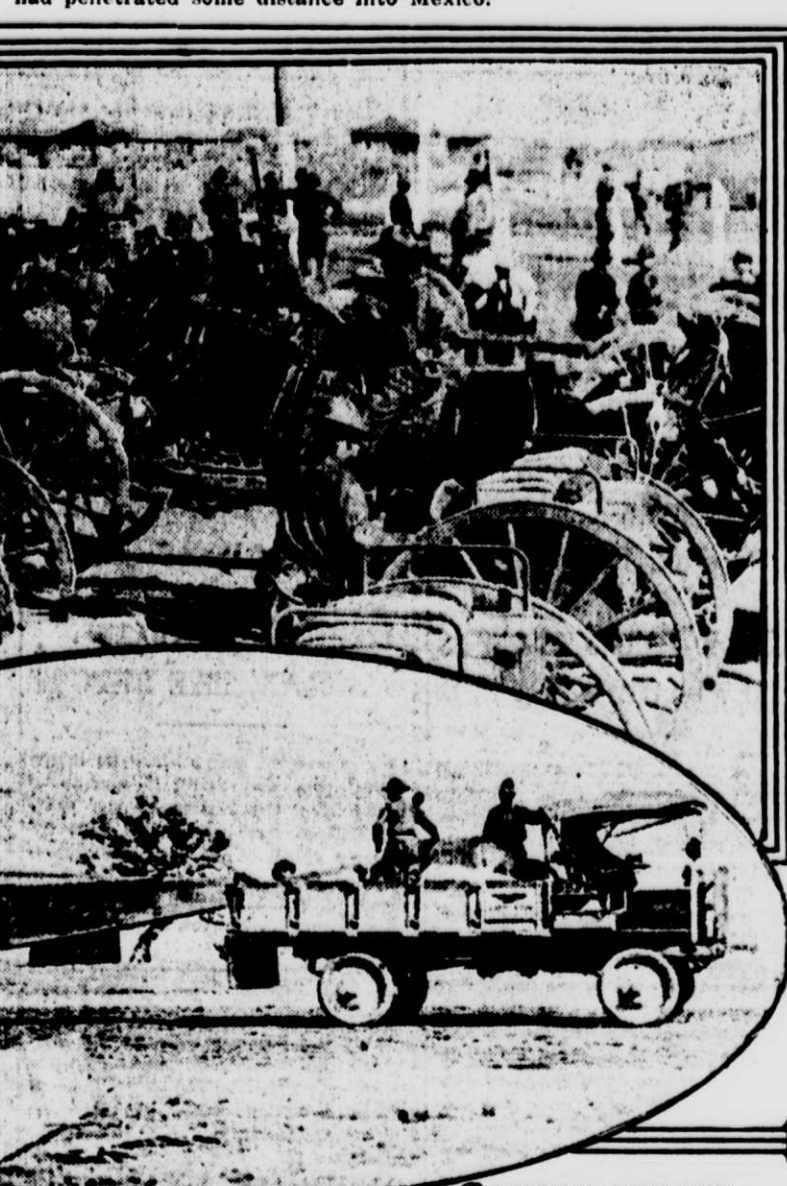

Postal Clerk Asks Police to Investigate Her Death.

William J. Phillips, a postal clerk, reported yesterday to the detective bureau that he wished an investigation made of the sudden death of his wife, Anna Phillips, on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Phillips, who lived at 323 Third avenue, was alone when, neighbors say, two men called to collect an installment on a talking machine. The talking machine company afterward said they had sent no collectors.

As the room in which Mrs. Phillips was found was much upset and the phonograph missing, her husband suspects that she may have been murdered.

Powerful auto trucks were used to draw the air machines on the march. It was said that the aircraft would not fly until the column had penetrated some distance into Mexico.

AMERICAN PRESS ASSN.

SENATE ADOPTS RESOLUTION ENDORSING WILSON'S ACTION

La Follette Offers Concurrent Bill, Which Goes Through Without Dissent—Pledge Given That United States Will Respect Mexico's Sovereignty.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Following is the text of the concurrent resolution passed by the Senate today endorsing the action taken by the President in Mexico:

Whereas it is understood that the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of apprehending and punishing the lawless band of armed men who entered the United States from Mexico on the fifth day of March, 1916, committed outrages on American soil and fled into Mexico, and whereas the President has ordered, or is about to order, the armed forces of the United States to cross the international boundary line between this country and Mexico for the purpose of